7.1.9

7.1.9 Sensitization of students and employees of the Institution to the constitutional obligations: values, rights, duties and responsibilities of citizens.

With the objective to foster a courteous and welcoming environment within the college community, the institution seeks to increase understanding of constitutional obligations, rights, and duties.

Nalanda Law college have used a comprehensive strategy that incorporates constitutional learning into daily operations in order to accomplish this. This entails integrating constitutional studies into extracurricular pursuits for all pupils and additional staff sessions.

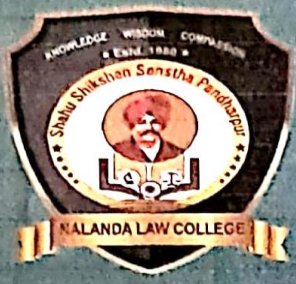

In order to provide students with extensive resources, the school conducts specialized activities or workshops on constitutional law and related areas. Furthermore, hosting legal experts for workshops and seminars offers a forum for talking about particular constitutional issues including equality, due process, freedom of speech, and civic duties.

Activities such as these not only broaden students' knowledge but also encourage critical thinking and awareness in teachers, staff, and other students.

By include these seminars and activities, students are given the opportunity to voice their ideas on constitutional issues that support a variety of viewpoints. The practical application of constitutional concepts in many contexts is demonstrated through the utilization of real-life case studies, which include debates on significant legal issues. The Nalanda Law College wants to enable students to actively participate in increasing constitutional knowledge and comprehension by giving student groups the opportunity to plan events that centre around constitutional problems.

Events like Lok Sabha, Street Play, and Poster Making are planned with student participation in mind. For both staff and students, the institution administers broad quizzes based on the constitution. Writing articles and having discussions on constitutional law are all included in the process of making students more aware of these issues. Pre-law course participants are introduced to legal ideas and have a discussion of the fundamentals of the constitution.

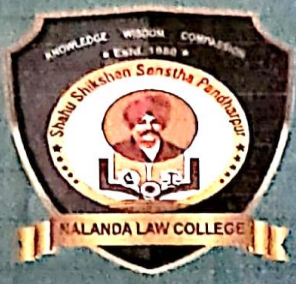

The college's premises features an exhibit of the constitution's preamble. The institution hopes to in still a sense of social responsibility in its employees and instructs them on how to fulfill their civic duty by contributing to society.

The institution hosts Legal Aid Awareness Programs in order to promote social justice values and benefit society. Environment Day, tree planting campaigns, and beach clean-ups as part of cleanliness campaigns are all executed. The organization teaches its staff members about workplace ethics and policies as part of gender sensitization.

By putting these all-encompassing tactics into practice, the university not only informs people about their constitutional rights but also cultivates an inclusive, respectful, and civic-engaged culture that produces knowledgeable and socially conscious academics.
